A 7-part breakdown

SWIPE ▶▶▶▶

0101 / 07

| MONACO MADE HIM.

Before the medals, the apprenticeship. At Monaco he won the 2003 Coupe de la Ligue and reached the 2004 Champions League final. Elite long before England came calling.

0202 / 07

| EIGHT YEARS. A DYNASTY.

From 2006 he was the heartbeat of Ferguson's defence — five Premier League titles, the 2008 Champions League, a Club World Cup and three League Cups. One of the great modern left-backs.

0303 / 07

| A LEADER ON EVERY SHIRT.

Club captain at United. Captain of France, 81 caps. Then two Serie A titles and another Champions League final at Juventus.
Wherever he went, he wore the armband.

0404 / 07

THE BRAVEST THING WASN'T ON A PITCH.

Years after retiring, Evra spoke openly about the abuse he survived as a child — and turned his own pain into a fight to protect others.

Courage measured off the grass.

0505 / 07

| WHAT HE'S BUILDING TODAY.

An author of 'I Love This Game'. A loud voice for mental health. A speaker and investor. The captain never stopped leading.

0606 / 07

| IN HIS OWN WORDS.

"I love this game." It titles his memoir and frames his second act — positivity, mental health, protecting kids. Football was only the beginning.

0707 / 07

| OUR VERDICT.

One of the modern game's great left-backs — and a louder, braver voice off the pitch than on it. Patrice Evra: the left back who led.
