THE FERNANDES QUESTION — MATEUS FERNANDES

€32m could land one of the league's best young midfielders. So why hasn't it happened?

A 7-part breakdown

| THE FERNANDES QUESTION.

Mateus Fernandes — 21, Portugal, West Ham.
One of the most coveted young midfielders in the league. And a number that won't go away.

0202 / 07

| WHO HE IS.

A composed, press-resistant central midfielder who moved to West Ham from Sporting CP — technical, two-footed, mature beyond his years. Contracted at the London Stadium until 2030.

0303 / 07

| “PRICE FIXED.”

Reports point to a relegation-triggered release clause worth around €32m. West Ham's open-market valuation has run as high as £80m — but the clause sets a floor nobody can argue with. (reported — clubs have not confirmed terms)

0404 / 07

| WHY UNITED.

United have spent two seasons short of control in midfield. Fernandes is exactly the profile they keep circling: young, resaleable, Premier-League proven. Reports say they have made contact with his camp. (RUMOUR / LINKED — no formal approach confirmed)

0505 / 07

| THE COMPLICATION.

West Ham say no bid has landed, and a relegation clause only bites if relegation happens. Player reportedly keen on Old Trafford — but the selling club holds the timing. Sources: Football365, CaughtOffside.

0606 / 07

| THE QUESTION.

At €32m he's a bargain; at £80m he's a gamble. Same player, two completely different deals. Which number is real — and would you do it?
