

— EDITION 02

The Last “Buy Now” Button

In 5 years, conversion rate optimization (CRO) will be dead. AI agents don't look at beautiful landing pages—they scan API documentation.

A 5-part breakdown

0101 / 05

| The End of the Shopping Cart.

The entire modern e-commerce flow—browsing, adding to cart, entering shipping info, clicking buy—was designed to guide an easily distracted human brain.

0202 / 05

| From UI Persuasion to API Precision.

AI agents do not care about beautiful hero images, glowing user testimonials, or countdown timers. They evaluate structured data feeds in milliseconds.

0303 / 05

Why 1-Click Checkout is Still Too Slow.

Even a one-click checkout requires human intervention. Agentic commerce introduces zero-click checkout, where purchases are executed automatically based on real-time optimization parameters.

0404 / 05

Programmatic Intent vs. Emotional Impulse.

Marketing has historically targeted human emotion. Agentic buying relies entirely on hard utility metrics: price, historical uptime, API performance, and delivery logistics.

0505 / 05

The Future: Optimizing for Machine Search.

Brands that win tomorrow won't invest millions into visual frontend designs. They will focus heavily on deploying clean, machine-readable schemas that AI agents can crawl and purchase from programmatically.
